Evolution Only Proposal Being Considered

Make plans to attend and show your support in Jacksonville Thursday, January 3, 2008, at 5:30 PM Schultz Center for Teaching and Leadership Jacksonville, Florida. Final Vote at the State Department of Education Meeting Tallahassee, February 19th, 2008 time & location tba. This is the meeting where the final vote will be taken. It is critical your opinion is heard. "Evolution & Diversity". Florida's Department of Education is scheduled to vote February 19th on the Proposed Math & Science Standards. This change will be for all schools in Florida for the next 6 - 10 years. Here is one of the changes with which we are concerned. "Evolution is the fundamental concept underlying all of biology..." We are NOT advocating creationism to be taught or having religion taught in the classroom - we are simply asking the FDOE to continue to teach evolution with both its faults as well as its supports. There is still time if you have not e-mailed the State Board. We have additional e-mail addresses for all the members.

YES! We made the goal! Thank you very much! *But Keep Collecting Until Monday, January 29, 2008. The Division of Elections office has posted on their website that Florida4Marriage.org has collected in excess of the 611,009 required petitions. * While we congratulate all of the thousands of Florida citizens who have helped collect petitions, we are encouraging individual volunteers, churches and community leaders to CONTINUE COLLECTING petitions through December and January. Our opponents have announced twice that they will challenge in court us if we are close to the goal. Each new petition also obtained helps to promote the amendment to new voters and increases the chances for a victory for the Marriage Amendment in November 2008.

All petitions must be physically in the Florida4Marriage.org office at 4853 South Orange Avenue, Orlando, FL 32806 by Tuesday January 29, 2008. This will allow us to submit them by the required deadline of February 1, 2008. Petitions submitted after close of business on this date will not be counted in the final total. Florida Abortionist Loses License for Illegal Late Term Abortions

Orlando, FL (LifeNews.com) -- Florida abortion practitioner James Pendergraft has been fined $10,000 and will lose his medical license for one year over an illegal late-term abortion he did in 2005. That's the decision of the Florida Board of Medicine, which handed down the decision about the notorious abortion practitioner on Friday. The board also will place Pendergraft's license on a three year probationary period following the suspension, but he plans to appeal the decision. The illegal abortions supposedly occurred at his Orlando centers in 2004 and 2005, but the Florida Board of Medicine threw out the charges related to the 2004 abortion.

However, the board said Pendergraft failed to follow state laws on an abortion he did on a woman's baby who was about 27 to 28 weeks into the pregnancy. Florida only allows such late-term abortions to be done in a hospital and only with the certification from two physicians asserting that the woman's life is in danger from the pregnancy.
